

Jackie Stewart and Jim Rosenfield

FEELIN' LUCKY

A small city's worth of real estate bigwigs converged on Las Vegas for five days of parties, or meetings at ICSC, the annual conference for commercial retail real estate. While this week is all about inking deals, the real action happens when the sun sets and the parties begin. Such was the case at the infamous Staubach bash and the cocktail party thrown at Treasure Island's Mist Bar & Lounge by international real estate law firm Condon, Thornton, Harrell and Malik. General Growth Properties threw a party poolside at the Bellagio, produced by celeb party guru Steve Kemble, complete with margarita popsicles served in shopping bags made of ice. And Gil Besing's Cardinal Capital threw an über hip fête for nearly 500 on the patio of Pure, overlooking the Vegas Strip. Guests got their bump and grind on, as The Las Vegas Pussycat Dolls dropped in for a sizzling special performance. —STACY GIRARD

Tricia and Gil Besing

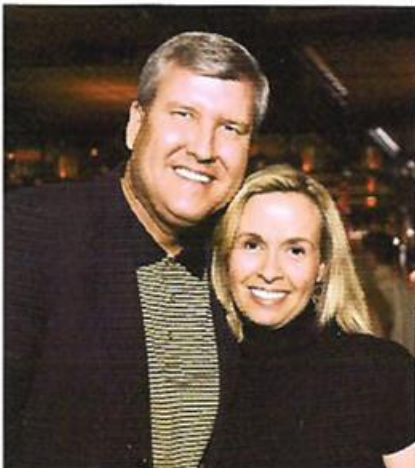

Angela and Tod Ruble

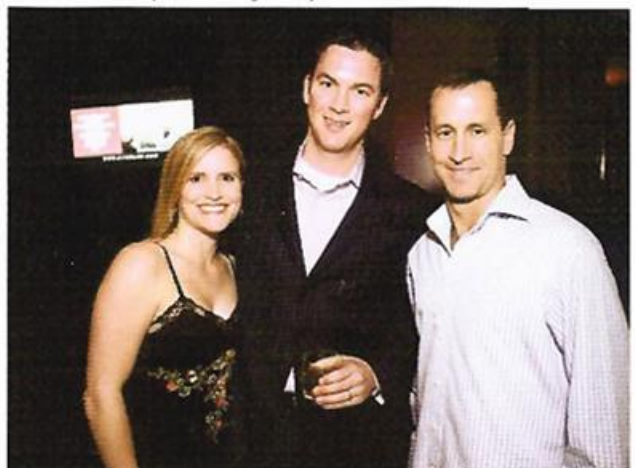

Eliot Barnett and David Condon

General Growth Properties' Bellagio Party

David and Beth Hardesty

Amy and Rory Nerenberg, Jerry Rasansky